

Second computer lab.

1. Write an interval arithmetic library. It should also include some of the most common standard functions.
2. Test your interval arithmetic library by computing range enclosures of elementary functions.